

Go Gadget Go! Press Kit June 2011

Go Gadget Go! is a high energy cover band, playing party and dance hits from the past 3 decades. Its members include guys who've been playing since 1993, to guys who have learned their instruments specifically to join this band of friends. Their sound is tight, their music diverse, their performance both fun and unforgettable. This band will get the crowds involved in their music, and up out of their seats to sing along and dance the night away.

Jeff (Merv) Bosselait (Drums, Vocals)

Merv was never formally trained on the drums. But when he was 8 years old, he hit his head and fell unconscious in the woods. When he woke up, he discovered that he had been missing for 8 years. Even more mystifying, he had not aged and could not account for the time that he was missing. Merv discovered that a robot named Max filled his head with galactic rhythm. Scientists were involved. I forget the rest.

Merv was a member of the MA punk band Einstein. He enjoys drinking heavily and being the green guys in the game Risk.

Rich Cook (Rhythm Guitar, Vocals)

Rich's noble family was involved in an epic battle for spice on a desert planet. This spice was the key to folding space, and it gave him the ability to see the future- the future of Central MA cover bands. Rich used these powers to master rhythm guitar and to lead giant worms into war. Knife fights ensue. I forget the rest.

Rich was a member of the MA punk band Einstein, and he has played with the RI outfit Suspect IED. He enjoys drinking heavily and chewing gum.

Mike Conti (Bass Guitar)

Mike learned to play bass when he attended an ivy-league college. This college only accepted him because they believed he was black-an illusion that he achieved through an overdose of tanning pills. He wasn't very good at basketball, though. Racists were involved. I forget the rest.

Mike is the only person in Gadget that is qualified to speak to strangers, so he does all the booking. Mike enjoys drinking heavily and north-westerly breezes.

Ryan Martin (Lead Guitar, Vocals)

Ryan originally worked to create a type of experimental military robot. He learned to play the lead guitar so he could program this ability into severed robotic hands on his desk. He also could make these robotic hands give the middle finger to his boss. One of his robots gets hit by lightning, meets Ally Sheedy, and is able to pass Rorschach tests. Much later, the robot joined a gang that chants about balls. I forget what happened before that.

Ryan was in the MA punk band Einstein. He is also a member of Snakepants and Rocco, Airdog, and records his own solo projects. He has produced and recorded local bands. Ryan enjoys drinking heavily, and salt.

Adam Milligan (Keytar, Vocals)

Adam is Action Jackson. He once almost ripped the arm off of a sexually violent sociopath with a powerful and rich father. Also, there was a junkie. I forget the rest.

He enjoys drinking heavily and the Windows XP chime.

Testimonials

The Red Onion

My Name is Ken Buzzell Jr. I own a bar called The Red Onion. We are lucky to have had Go Gadget Go perform at the Onion several times. Their ability to get the crowd involved and dancing, their fun loving, high energy, and phenomenal musical talent are refreshing with so many watered down bands out there right now. Definitely one of my all time favorites and I'm constantly being asked, "When is Go Gadget Go coming back?"
